

161—3.15(216) Injunctions. If the executive director or an appropriately designated staff person determines that a complainant may be irreparably injured before a public hearing can be called to determine the merits of the complaint, the executive director or designee may instruct an attorney for the commission to seek injunctive relief as may be appropriate to preserve the rights of the complainant and the public interest.